CLEMENCEAU IN CONFERENCE

WOUNDED PREMIER MEETS COLLEAGUES IN IMPORTANT BUSINESS SESSION.

By the Associated Press
PARIS, Feb. 21.—Premier Clemenceau will receive his colleagues of the supreme council at his home this afternoon to discuss certain important matters with them, according to an announcement shortly before noon today. The premier's doctors consider him out of danger and authorized this afternoon's reception of ministers. Physicians believe he can resume political activities Monday.

20 YEARS FOR BERGER ET AL

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Twenty years in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth was the sentence imposed today on Victor Berger, representative-elect from Milwaukee and his four co-defendants, following their conviction in federal court of conspiracy to violate the espionage act and obstruct the United States war program.

This was the maximum prison sentence under the law.

Sentence was pronounced by Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the trial judge, after he had overruled motion for a new trial.

After sentence was pronounced motion for stay of execution was made. Judge Landis also overruled this motion.

Attorneys for the defendants immediately went before the United States circuit court of appeals, where Judge Samuel Alschuler granted stay of execution and fixed the bond at $25,000 for each of the five defendants, pending hearing on the appeal.

Judge Alschuler said he hesitated to grant the motion for bail lest the defendants continue their socialist agitation.

He interviewed each of the five and then granted them bail, with the understanding that they refrain from resuming their former acts and utterances during the pendency of their case.

CORPORATION COMMISSION FINES TELEPHONE CO.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 21.—The Corporation Commission, in an order issued today, placed a fine of $11,000 against the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, or $500 a day from Jan. 21 to Feb. 11, inclusive. This is for the alleged violation of the commission's schedule of telephone rates. The telephone company had placed in effect the schedule of rates promulgated by the Postmaster General. The Corporation Commission contends that it has jurisdiction over the rates for the telephone company intrastate.

Attorney General Freeling has already applied for an order from the courts restraining the telephone company from further charging and collecting fees under the Postmaster General's schedule.

SAME OLD BUNCH RULES GERMANY

AN INVESTIGATOR REPORTS NO REAL CHANGE IN CHARACTER OF GOVERNMENT

PARIS, Feb. 21.—"The German government is the same bureaucratic regime of the Kaisers day, with same attitude toward labor and capital and does not represent the forces which caused the revolution," says Dr. Alonzo E. Taylor, food specialist, just returned from Germany, where he investigated in behalf of the supreme council on food relief. Count von Bernstorff, he added, is in charge of the foreign office and bureaucrats of the old school are in evidence everywhere. The German army apparently has been demobilized for the most part but Dr. Taylor expressed the belief that the well organized bureaucracy could restore militarism if considered desirable.

Ransom, supervisor of War Savings Societies; District Chairmen and County Chairmen from every section of the State, with the exception of the northeast district, comprising eighteen counties.

Another meeting will be held in Muskogee on Wednesday, the 26th for the workers of the eighteen counties. These meetings are called for the purpose of discussing and outlining plans for the 1919 campaign.

Magic Guard Against Rattlesnakes.
Camping out in a rattlesnake-infested district with no other protection or one's bed than an encircling horsehair rope would not give the average tenderfoot a feeling of security. A photograph in Popular Mechanics Magazine showed two campers making their bed on the Western plains, surrounded by nothing more stable than one of these ropes, as it is well known in that region that rattlesnakes have an unconquerable aversion for crawling over a rope of this kind.

Friendship.

No one is so poor as the person who is going through life without friends. None of us needs to be in this sad plight, for all around us are those who need love and sympathy—those for whom we can make life less difficult. And that is what friendship means: spending oneself for those one loves and asking nothing in return. It is "only he who is unwilling to love without being loved" who is likely to feel that there is no such thing as true friendship.

COMMISSION FINDS GREAT DIFFICULTY IN DETERMINING AMOUNT OF DAMAGE.

By the Associated Press
PARIS, Feb. 21.—In outlining tonight the difficulties met by the peace conference commission on reparation in determining the approximate losses of any belligerent, captain Andre tardin of the French delegates said France alone would present a bill for 450,000 houses destroyed. This, he added, would not include factories. M. Tardieu said the allies had agreed that Germany must pay to the limit of her capacity which is now being determined from divers sources by reparation commission.

W. C. T. U. WILL WAR ON WOMEN SMOKERS

By the Associated Press
ST. LOUIS, Feb. 21.—A new war will be declared soon by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union. It will be against women smoking. The announcement was made by Miss Anna A. Gordon, president of the organization, while here arranging for the annual convention next fall.

"The special war will be waged under the organization's health campaign work," said Miss Gordon. "Smoking is becoming too prevalent an awe believe it has a strong tendency toward weakening future generations. We shall do some of our hardest work against this silly, injurious custom."

Miss Gordon declared that the organization, having realized the principle for which it has stood for 50 years, will continue its work. Besides looking after returned soldiers, aiding women in industry and seeking child welfare, the union will work for prohibition in other countries, she said.

The Indian proved himself a true American during the war. Of a total of 33,000 eligibles for military service, 8,000 were in the army and navy when the armistice was signed. The Indians subscribed $15,000,000 to Liberty loans, a per capita of $50. Ten thousand of them joined the Indian Red Cross.—Tishominko Capital-Democrat.

A LETTER TO HIS EXCELLENCY.

Dear Governor:
Some short time since we made editorial application to be appointed a corporal in order that we might serve as orderly to the thirty-six new colonels, singly or collectively. Not having heard from you regarding this important matter we herewith take our trusty Ford in our lap and pen you these few brief lines.

Our military experience, Governor you might say has been unlimited. In 1898 we remembered the Maine by digging numerous trenches in Chickamauga Park. In 1900 Lord Kitchen, in company with ourself, took an important part in that Boer-English little curtain raiser, a few years later we enlisted with 1911 Murray's Squirrel Rifles and at a later date rendered heroic service in the Crazy Snake rebellion, standing valiantly by our guard and sending out, under a Henryetta date line, the most startling and original statement regarding the action of General Hoffman and Brant Kirk. And in the late unpleasantness we served faithfully as a member of the Council of Defense and right guide in the home guards.

With the imposing record before you, Governor, and surrounded by your thirty-six Colonels who have no one to give orders to, it would seem that you are not as keenly alive to the welfare of those equaled heroes as you should be.

A corporal is a necessary evil, without whom military life is but a barren and desolate failure. Other matters may be called to your attention but none will be of such grave importance as this and it is to be hoped that you will forego the pleasure of your Wednesday night prayer meeting to give this application the consideration it deserves.

Now I must close, Governor and ask you in closing beg that you tell me whether or not the present steps of its predecessors, opens the first jack pot with prayer? Yours in hopes.—Jack Hyde in Healdton Herald.

Learned Great Truth Early.

Son has just begun to go to school and has much to say about the new little girls he meets, but every few days it is a different girl that attracts him. His mother said, "I'm afraid, son, that you are changeable." He answered, "Tain't me that changes; it's them, when you know them better."

Nature's Great Wisdom.

There is something so sublimely positive in nature. She never kills for the mere sake of killing; but every death is but one step in the vast weaving of the web of life. She has no process of destruction which, as you turn it to the other side and look at it in what you know to be its true light, you do not see to be the process of construction.—Phillips Brooks.

Devolved From Passing Idea.

It was a passing idea which gave to the world the discovery of galvanic electricity, so useful in transmitting vocal or written language. Mme. Galvani simply happened to notice the contraction of the muscles of a skinned frog accidentally touched at the moment her husband took a spark from an electrical machine, and that was the whole thing!

Science.

Only things in nature proved, not beyond a reasonable doubt, but beyond any doubt, can be classed under the majestic word science. The slightest trace, or even suspicion, of doubt will exclude instantly any assertion, statement or hypothesis from being placed in a list of laws of nature, and shift them all over to the extensive catalogue of theories.

GOES 30 MILES TO GET MORE TANLAC

Throws Walking Canes Away After Tanlac Relieved His Rheumatism He says—Has Gained 15 Pounds.

"When I first started on Tanlac I was so crippled up with rheumatism that I had to use two walking sticks in order to get about at all, but after taking five bottles, every pain is gone and I have gained fifteen pounds besides," said William Choate, 34 West Riverside Avenue, Spokane, Washington.

"Rheumatism was only one of the many troubles that Tanlac relieved me of," he continued. "I had suffered with a bad stomach for twelve years. Gas would form after I had eaten and almost cut off my breath. I had a terrible hurting in the pit of my stomach. I had awful pains in the small of my back and constant headaches. Then rheumatism set in and I was laid up flat of my back for several weeks hardly able to move."

"Well, to make a long story short, Tanlac just simply did wonders for me. Before I finished my second bottle I had thrown away my canes and could walk as well as anyone. All the sourness and gas has left my stomach. I can eat just anything I want and enjoy it and I haven't a touch of the rheumatism left. I had to drive thirty miles to get one bottle of the Tanlac, our local druggist being out, but I would do so again under the same circumstances.

RED CROSS HELPING SIBERIAN SUFFERERS

VLADIVOSTOK, Jan. 10.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Twenty-five freight cars, carrying $410,000 worth of clothing to meet the most pressing needs of the Russian civilian population in Western Siberia has been sent from Vladivostok under the joint direction of the American Red Cross and the Russian Railway Service Corps.

These supplies are intended for refugees in districts where the Red Cross is operating distributing agencies; but there is included a special lot of clothing and clothing materials for Russian employees of the Trans-Siberian Railway. These men have been stuck to their posts under most distressing circumstances and their devotion has elicited a special recommendation for assistance from John T. Stevens, head of the Railway Service Corps.

The train carried seven cars of underwear, four of blankets, five of clothing material, one car of sweaters, gloves and socks, one car of children's clothing, a car of flannellette, one of miscellaneous articles and several of drug and hospital supplies and provisions.

A RECONCILIATION

By CARRIE L. P. CURTIS.

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure News-paper Syndicate.)

Situated near the little railroad station in the town of Hutton is a log cabin. This rustic little cabin is the home of Mrs. Joshua Dorr and daughter Zilpha. Mr. Dorr having died many years before. One very pleasant evening Zilpha came home from school very much downhearted. "I think it just horrid," sighed Zilpha. "I only wish she hadn't sent it to me." "Oh, dear Zilpha, Marcella will certainly understand, and if she had not sent it you would have felt much more downhearted," said Mrs. Dorr. "I am horrid, anyway," replied Zilpha.

It certainly was a shame. Marcella Phelps was to give a party next week, not merely a commonplace affair, but one much out of the ordinary. At this party Marcella would celebrate her entrance into society. Zilpha was invited and she had no clothes suitable to wear. It was hard for her to have no dress, no slippers, no gloves, and worst of all, no money with which to buy them. When her father was alive he provided for the family very well, but since his death the frail mother had a very difficult task to provide for herself and daughter. Mrs. Dorr took in washing and sewing, and every cent that she received in return was measured and viewed upon either side before it was spent.

It was Tuesday evening; they were at tea. Mrs. Dorr gently spoke: "I have an idea, Zilpha." "I often have ideas, but they vanish as quickly as they appear," sighed Zilpha. "But, my dear, this is an idea which I think that I shall be able to perform."

When tea was finished, Mrs. Dorr asked Zilpha if she would go to the loft and bring down that large, round box which had been stored away for many years. Arising from the table, she ran upstairs to find the box which her mother wished. Returning with it, Zilpha gave it to her mother. It was a large box, yellow with age, and was slightly dusty.

Zilpha stood with eyes aghast. What could be inside that box was the question which she was asking herself. Removing the cover Mrs. Dorr took out a large square package. Out of this package she took a pale pink silk cape, with a border of deeper pink. Unfolding it carefully, Mrs. Dorr at last spoke. "You are to have a dress and all that is necessary to wear to the party." "Oh, my dear mother, where did you get it? Going, going, going to the party!" screamed Zilpha. After looking at the articles in the box, Zilpha went to bring in the wood.

On Zilpha's return from school Friday afternoon her mother had all of her clothes in readiness for her to wear at the party that evening. At six o'clock that evening Zilpha went to her room to dress for the occasion. Oh, what a scene when Zilpha spied her lovely garments prepared for her by her mother! Zilpha was enchanting in her school clothes, but after adorning in these no maiden to be found could appear more grand. Zilpha, a very tall, slim brunette, with her hair arranged low, dressed in this full, plain silk skirt, nearly covered with a clinging overdress, was simply a dream. The bodice was plain, with neck slightly pointed and relieved by a band of dainty lace. Black silk stockings and dainty slippers worn by her mother at the altar were her next attire. Opening a small box which lay on the bed, Zilpha found a pair of black silk gloves and a string of pearls. "Oh, mother, where did you get these?" cried she with joy. "Your brother Cedric gave them to me before he wandered from home. Oh, how I wish that I might see him again!"

She was now ready for the party. What a beautiful sight she was, as she tripped gently across the lawn, on her way to the home of Marcella Phelps. She was perfectly charming, an angel could not have been more so. She arrived at the house, and was met at the door, and ushered to the reception room by Marcella's brother Roy.

While they were conversing, the band began to play a slow, dreamy waltz. At this moment their conversation was interrupted by Roy Phelps. "May I have the first waltz with you, Miss Dorr?" Of course Zilpha did not refuse, and before that one was over, he had filled her card for all. "Who's the swell dancer?" "See how gracefully she swings the corner." "Gee, she's a peach." "Guess I have her for the next dance," were the remarks from the fellows. Roy and Zilpha danced together the entire evening. The clock was striking twelve, Roy and Zilpha were having the last waltz, when a tall man approached her. Bowing gently, Zilpha wondered the cause of this sudden interruption. "Pardon me, but you remind me very much of a little friend of mine, whom I have not seen for many years. As many young men do, I wandered from home. At that time my sister was a small child. But you are the born image of her. What is your name, please?" "Zilpha Dorr is my name." "And my name is Cedric Dorr." "Oh, my long lost brother! Where did you come from?" "I am home never to wander again."

Shortly, brother and sister departed for home, to their lonesome mother. Entering the house they found Mrs. Dorr reading. "My lost son!" exclaimed Mrs. Dorr. "I have just been praying that I might see you." What a reconciliation in that home that night. As they sat together the mother, daughter and son whispered, "Isn't it great to be together again?"

DESPERATE PLIGHT OF HUNGARIANS

By the Associated Press

VIENNA, Feb. 20.—Living conditions in Hungary have reached the stage where the only hope of the aristocracy is that the entente powers will send troops to Budapest and to other parts of the country to save them from the dreaded menace of Bolshevism. Many of the former aristocrats have gone to their country homes and many others would like to go to Switzerland but are unable to obtain permission to leave the country. The streets of Budapest are considered unsafe after dark and wealthy persons employ soldiers to guard their homes.

Thousands of unemployed in Budapest and other towns are receiving from the state 40 to 50 crowns a day, three-fourths of which is contributed by manufacturers, who are fast losing all the money they made during the war. One of the largest munition firms, which recently employed 30,000 persons is paying them 5,000,000 crowns a week. It is asserted that this is tending toward the demoralization of the workmen who prefer to live upon state pay rather than to return to work.

Many factories have been brought to a standstill owing to the lack of coal and it is feared that flour mills may also be forced to shut down. The train service has been reduced to one train a day between Budapest and Vienna, the journey occupying sixteen hours instead of four.

The Cabinet Ministers, who before the revolution received salaries of 25,000 crowns, are now taking 100,000 crowns. The number of Under-Secretaries of State has been increased from 12 to 77, each being paid 40,000 crowns a year. Immense sums have been expended in payment to invalided soldiers. A plan was suggested by which a sum of 25,000,000 crowns would have covered all annual pensions, but instead of adopting such a plan, the Ministry has spent 70,000,000 crowns in a few weeks in temporary relief, with the result that the recipients are now clamoring for further help.

FRANCE GIVES AID TO AMERICA

The pouring out of French blood and the enormous financial sacrifices are not the only aid France has given America. We are indebted to the French peasants for a perfect remedy for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments which has not only been marvelously successful over there, but has been equally so over here. The ingredients are imported and put up for sale in this country by Geo. H. Mayr, for many years a leading Chicago chemist, under the name of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Gwin & Mays Drug Co., and druggists everywhere.

TULSA MAY GET AIR LINE TO THE TEXAS OIL FIELD

TULSA, Ok., Feb. 22.—An airplane service from Tulsa to the Ranger Oil field, which will make the trip, carrying passenger and freight, in four hours is the proposal which is being fostered by a member of the United States aviation service now conducting an investigation here to determine how the airline will be accepted in Tulsa. The aviator believes that such service would be well accepted at this end of the line.

The proposition is to bring eight planes for this purpose to Tulsa if sufficient interest is evidenced on the part of local oil men. A company for promoting the scheme is now under way. The freight capacity of the planes would be 200 pounds in addition to a passenger. It is intended to charge a dollar a pound for transporting freight.

True Version of Cinderella.

Cinderella never had a glass shoe. This is said but true. The pretty story of the Cinder Girl came from the French and the author made Cinderella wear a "pantoufle en vair," a slipper made of "vair," a word which means fur. There is a French word "verre" which means glass, and the translator mistook "vair" for "verre" and consequently history records Cinderella as wearing a glass slipper.

CENTER.

Friday at 1:30 p. m. Mrs. Henry's room invited Miss Southerland's room to be with them at their Valentine party. A great time was had, and many Valentines were given. Violet Parker receiving the most Valentines.

Friday at 7:30 p. m. Mr. Henry and Miss Brandon entertained the children of the High School and 8th grade with a Valentine party at the school house. Verses were written on hearts and then cut in two, one half given to boys and the other half to girls. The two persons having the complete heart were to be partners for the evening. Much fun was had in finding your other half of your heart. Each person was to give the partner a Valentine secretly, but if seen giving it, the Valentine was taken by the party seeing it pass. Then Valentines were auctioned off to the first person making a rhyme. A goodly number of nice rhymes were made. After this we played charade. Then served hot chocolate and cake. Mr. Walter Gatling and Mr. Taylor were visitors at the party.

Saturday night a double-header basketball game was played at Francis between Center and Francis. The score being 8 to 21 in favor of Francis boys. The girls tied on 3, then in playing the tie off they tied on 6, and it remained a tie.

Next Saturday night Center will meet Stonewall at Ada, and a double-header will be played in the gymnasium at 8:00 p. m.

IRONEN WINNING FAVOR THROUGHOUT THE WEST

Authorities State That It Adds Strength and Vigor.

Interest continues to grow throughout the West concerning the new strength builder, Irogon, which scientists are claiming is the essential element needed for rebuilding strength, health and vigor.

Hundreds of people are reported to have tested the new discovery with amazing results, and it is predicted that within a short time Irogon will be universally used in restoring health to the weak and ailing.

Authorities, including the People's Hospital of New York, Prof. Irving R. Bacon and Dr. William Howard Baird, the noted specialist, explain that Irogon builds up the vigor and strength of the system through the blood, thus making it immune from germs, or in other words, it gives the system the strength to throw off germs.

It is pointed out that hospital tests and exhaustive experiments of every description have proven conclusively that Irogon possesses the essential element which nature requires in the building of new, rich, red blood, and science now contends that it is a known fact that chronic disease is only weakness caused by poor, impoverished blood. Those who have watched the action of Irogon state that this theory is proven beyond the shadow of a doubt when thin, weak, frail people, suffering from common complaints, take on the bloom of health and become strong, sturdy, vigorous men and women, after a few weeks' trial of the Irogon treatment.

Irogon has not only been used and publicly endorsed by large institutions like the People's Hospital and physicians who stand high in their profession, but people in all walks of life have taken it with gratifying results. It is now dispensed without a doctor's prescription by leading druggists under an absolute guarantee.

Note: Irogon, the product mentioned above, is now on sale in Ada by Gwin & Mays, in Allen by G. W. Busby, in Francis by Francis Drug Co., in Stoneham by L. P. Carpenter and in Vanoss by the Lyon Drug Company, and the leading druggists in practically every city, town and village in the state.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

CATERPILLAR BROTHERS.

"We are the only kind of caterpillars around our parts," said Mr. Charles Caterpillar.

"We Crawl for a Time."

"Of our lives?" he asked, and Mr. Oak Caterpillar squirmed a little bit and said:

"I'd be delighted to hear the history of our lives. Yes, I'd be delighted, indeed."

"All right," said Mr. Charles Caterpillar, "draw a little nearer." So both caterpillars wiggled a little nearer each other and Mr. Charles Caterpillar began his story.

"He cleared his peculiar caterpillar throat in a most peculiar way and said, 'as so another caterpillar would understand, but which we all could see for ourselves, if we studied caterpillars, as follows:'

"Our butterfly relations," he said, "began their lives last spring—they were our mothers and our fathers, I believe."

"Yes," said Mr. Oak Caterpillar, "I believe that our fathers and our mothers are generally known of as our relations."

"I am glad you agree," said Mr. Charles Caterpillar. "Well, let me continue. In the first place they had a beautiful springtime, flying about fittingly and lightly and enjoying life immensely."

"Then they laid some eggs upon the leaves of oak trees and those eggs became us."

"Indeed! How interesting!" exclaimed Mr. Oak Caterpillar. "I've always heard, in my whole summer life, that caterpillars and butterflies were very interesting because they changed from one thing into another."

"They say there are many unfortunate who never change at all."

"For example, I've heard that children always remained children until they grew up. They grow to be sure, but they don't change into other creatures. They always have two legs and walk or run about."

"Now we crawl for a time and then we fly and that is so wonderful. We know what it is like to be on earth and in the air. Isn't that so, brother Charles?"

"Yes," said Mr. Charles Caterpillar, "you have heard how lucky we are and a good part of our history, but I will continue, for it is interesting whether we know it or not to hear it over and over again."

"It is always interesting," said Mr. Oak Caterpillar.

"We make little nests for ourselves, which we sew together with beautiful silk, and we use our nests as folk use their homes, for sleeping and napping and resting, and we take little crawls away from time to time as people take walks."

"I've heard," said Mr. Oak Caterpillar, "that people used beds for sleeping and napping and resting, and that their homes contained dining rooms and living rooms and places where they could read and dance and play games."

"Oh, well," said Mr. Charles Caterpillar, "we can't make as much use of our nests as they do of their homes, and besides we're very young and so much isn't expected of us."

"True, true," said Mr. Oak Caterpillar, "too much should not be expected of us, as we are."

"When our nests become too small," said Mr. Charles Caterpillar, "we get new ones, and after that stage is over we make our winter plans which we must do now. We had better make our nests of silk and hide under the oak leaves which are left on the tree."

"We must not get wet and we must not get cold, but the most important thing of all is that we shouldn't get wet."

"Then when the early spring comes we will fall to the ground and wait until the real spring is at hand, when we will turn into a chrysalis and last but not least into beautiful butterflies. And we're the only kind around these parts."

"Our lives are indeed interesting," said Mr. Oak Caterpillar again, as they both began to get ready for the winter.

Snakes in Ireland.

There are snakes in Ireland, but only two or three species. For Others

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.)

"Down below freezing point, quite!"

lipped Augustus Van Dorn, exquisite and lady killer, to a friend at a social function. "Tried to flirt with her, tried to talk to her—she froze me with a look!"

"Yes, Miss Ada Dalton is sub zero on most occasions," nodded his friend casually. "She has no use for the male sex and little for her sisterhood acquaintances."

Which was true in a measure, yet under the mask of disdain and indifference there was a heart filled with genuine interest and sympathy where the same were helpful and necessary. It seemed strange to her old schoolmates, but almost at the dawn of early womanhood Ada Dalton appeared to have resolved to devote her life to the welfare of the poor, the downtrodden and the distressed.

Her true philanthropic work began when a well-meaning retired clergyman and his wife established a home for little orphan children gathered from the slums of the city. The clergyman died, and his wife, broken down in health and spirits, went home to her parents. It was then that Ada induced her father to donate a thousand dollars to the charity to bridge over the reconstruction of the same. She interested local church societies, she won upon grasping, hard-hearted Joel Bliss to give a free lease for ten years of a large building that had been abandoned as an unprofitable suburban hotel.

From that time forward Ada was all heart and soul in the project, and within a year had so systematized the same that comfort and happiness were assured for the children under her charge. It seemed to fill her life completely, and the circle of girl assistants she grouped about her came to share her interest and philanthropy.

Joel Bliss was away for his health when there came a election of new officers. Quite casually he was succeeded in the governorship by a local politician who aspired to publicity. When Bliss returned he was wroth and disgruntled. It was said that he had at once canceled his will. Before Ada, with her gentle, persuasive way, could gain an interview and convince him that no disrespect had been intended, he died. She was dismayed when, a month later, his lawyer intimated to her that the prospective legacy had been annulled and that Randall Bliss, a nephew residing in a distant city, was the beneficiary of his estate.

The future prospects of the children's home looked gloomy. There had been a deficit the year previous, and Ada had counted on Mr. Bliss making it up. The institution faced a debt of seven hundred dollars. A part of this she induced her father to provide and she solicited contributions for the residue, but the building required repairs and the furniture needed replacement and she feared for the permanency of the charity.

One day Ada was seated in the office of the home puzzling her tired brain over some provision for pressing bills for fuel and food, when a young man entered the room. She noted at a glance that he was of superior mold. His dignity and courtesy attracted her. He introduced himself without preface.

"I am Randall Bliss," he said. "Of course you have heard my name mentioned as the heir of my dead uncle, Joel Bliss."

Ada nodded, paled, then a quick concern came into her lovely eyes. Did this mean dispossession? If so, why should she demur? She asked her visitor politely to be seated. A fire burned in the grate and he gazed into the gloomy embers thoughtfully. He looked up abruptly.

"Miss Dayton," he said in a clear, kindly tone that somehow encouraged her, "I have just come from my uncle's attorney. I find that he has the original will my uncle made, and that only. He recalls, however, that my uncle told him that he had made a later will. This is true. My uncle sent this later will to me. There it is."

Randall Bliss took from his pocket a folded document. "This instrument only," he proceeded, "stands in the way of the dear little ones under your charge receiving ownership to this building and ten thousand dollars. I have been inquiring about your noble charity—and you. They need the benefaction; they deserve it more than I."

"Oh! what would you do?" cried Ada with a vivid start, for Randall Bliss had cast the document into the grate and it was reduced to nothingness. He arose and bowed courteously. "A tribute," he said with earnest tone, "to your noble life work," and was gone.

Ah! for the heart of ice. If nothing else, that flood of joyous tears would have melted it away. Sub zero? The woman nature, glorified, shone like purest gold, and then to her knees, in a thrilling prayer of gratitude infinite!

It was not in that pure, thankful soul to rest until she had sought out the man who had conferred inestimable blessings upon her beloved charges. She met him on the street, and broken words and tears mingled. His mission at Brookville was completed, but he lingered. Her gentle eyes bade him do so. Her sweet lips later repeated the request, and with the first June roses Ada had a partner in her great work for others.

LEGISLATIVE PROCEEDINGS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 21.—The Senate this afternoon, after spending some time debating the measure, indefinitely postponed the House joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment for a graduated land tax.
The vote to indefinitely postpone was 19 to 18. No motion was lodged to reconsider.

Senator Tucker has a resolution proposing a graduated land tax which is still in a Senate committee, and it was intimated that he would now call for his bill and probably start the whole fight over again for a graduated land tax. The measure killed this afternoon was a house resolution, and had passed that body.

The motion indefinitely postponed was made by Senator Wallace. Senator Wallace regarded the proposed measure as socialism, and doubted that it would, if made into a law and enforced, help solve the question brought up in the graduated land tax proposition. "If I thought it would help the tenant farmer," he said, "I would be for it. It won't produce more corn or more wheat. It will hurt the tenant farmer more than it will help him, because it will make him pay higher rent."

Senator Harrison of Ada, supporting the resolution, declared that conditions in Oklahoma at the present time made it important that such a measure should be enacted. He said the large element of tenant farmers in the State now and their condition was one of the best arguments why the people should have such a law.
He believed it would be the greatest help toward home ownership. Oklahoma had sent thousands of men to help make the world a safe place in which to live. These men will be coming back here soon, he said, to see what their people have been doing for them. Many of these men, before going to war, lived in hovels, he declared. They have since had some of the comforts they never dreamed of before, and coming back, they will not be satisfied to return to the conditions they left behind.

Senator Hall opposed the measure, saying that in his opinion it could not grant relief to the tenant farmer.
Senator Golube said he could not support it because of a principle he could not reconcile. He explained how the State is, in a way, conducting a system of land tenancy with its school lands, and now seeking to ask the private land holder to cut up his lands and sell them. Senator Tucker believed that the time had come when such a measure must be given to the people. Senator Draughon also favored the resolution.

Proceedings in the House.

The House called rolls on bills that had been advanced on Wednesday, among them the bill by Walden and others providing for free school books on a local option plan. Any school district desiring may petition for an election at which the voters of the district may decide if they want to create a fund for the purchase of the books.

The House also passed finally the Senate bill taking Oklahoma county from the Judicial Court District No.
9 and joining it to District No. 22.
The result is that Hughes County is now in one district alone, while the other district is composed of three counties, Oklahoma, Oklahoma and Creek.

The House passed finally the Senate bill by Clark and Hill relating to the dissolution of corporations; by Cheatham, providing for the revision and codifying the statutes; by Ruth and others, providing for building of convention halls. This provides that cities may hold bond elections and vote up to 1 per cent of the valua-

"HULLO!"

When you see a man in woe
Walk right up an' say: "Hullo!"
Say "Hullo" an' "how d'ye do."
How's the world a-usin' you?
Slap the fellow on the back,
Bring your hand down with a whack;
Waltz right up, an' don't go slow,
Grin an' shake an' say: "Hullo!"
Rags are but a cotton roll,
Just for wrappin' up a soul
An' a soul is worth a true
Hale an' hearty "Howd'ye do?"
Don't wait for the crowd to go—
Walk right up an' say "Hullo!"

W'en big vessels meet, they say,
They saloot an' sail away;
Jest the same as you an' me;
Lonesome ships upon the sea,
Each one sailing his own jog,
For a port beyond the fog,
Let your speakin' trumpet blow,
Lift your horn an' cry "Hullo!"
Say "hullo" an' how d'ye do,"
Other folks are good as you
When you leave your house of clay,
An' are wonderin' in the far away;
W'en you travel through the strange
Country t'other side the range, Then the souls you've cheered will know
Who you be, an' say: "Hullo!"
